(2) A disclaimer or statement made by the Registrar under subsection (1) shall be entered in the Register and shall restrict the rights of a proprietor.

28. The Registrar may, in determining whether a trade mark can be registered, or remain on the Register, consider public interest as a condition of the trade mark being, or remaining, on the Register.

29. (1) A person who claims to be entitled to the exclusive right to the use of a part of a trade mark may apply to the Registrar to register the whole, or part, of that trade mark, as a separate trade mark.

(2) Subject to subsection (1), each separate trade mark shall satisfy the requirements for registration of a trade mark under this Act.

30. The Registrar may register a trade mark as a series in one registration where a person who seeks to register a trade mark claims to be the proprietor of several trade marks in respect of the same, or similar good or service, or description of a good or service, that resemble each other in a material particular, but differ in respect of—

(a) statement of the good or service in relation to which the good or service is respectively used or proposed to be used;

(b) statement of number, price, quality or name of place;

(c) other matter of a non distinctive character that does not substantially affect the identity of the trade mark; or

(a) in the name of the same proprietor;

(b) in respect of the same or similar good or service or description of a good or service; and

(c) identical with, or similar to, another trade mark that is registered or is the subject of an application for registration of a trade mark and is likely to deceive or cause confusion when used by a person other than the proprietor.
(2) A trade mark shall, where the trade mark is registered as a separate trade mark in the name of the same proprietor in accordance with section 29, be registered as an associated trade mark.

(3) A trade mark that is registered as, or that is considered to be, an associated trade mark is assignable or transmissible collectively and not separately.

(4) The Registrar may, on an application made by a proprietor, and where the Registrar is satisfied that there is no likelihood of deception or confusion being caused if a trade mark is used by another person in relation to a good or service in respect of which that trade mark is registered, dissolve the association of trade marks and amend the Register accordingly.

(5) An application under subsection (4) shall be made in a prescribed manner and form on payment of a prescribed fee.

32. The Registrar shall not accept an application for registration of a trade mark that contains—

(a) a word that suggests that the word is protected by another intellectual property right or a word in a language, or an abbreviation of that word to the like effect; or

(b) the word “President”, “Republic”, “Zambia”, or a letter, device or representation of the image of the President that is likely to lead a person to believe that the applicant either has, or has had, the patronage or authorisation of the President, or patronage or authorisation from the Government, whether or not that may be the case.

33. The Registrar shall not register a trade mark that contains the name, or representation of the image, of a known person, whether living or dead, as part of the trade mark, unless the applicant has obtained the written consent of the—

(a) person whose name, or representation of whose image, is contained in the trade mark; or

(b) legal representative of the person whose name, or representation of whose image, is contained in the trade mark.

34. (1) The Registrar may accept an application for the registration of a trade mark that is identical or similar to an earlier application or registration of a trade mark where the applicant shows to the satisfaction of the Registrar that—there has been an honest concurrent use in the course of trade of the trade mark for which registration is sought in the Republic; and

(b) due to special circumstances, it is proper for the trade mark to be registered.

(2) The proprietor of an earlier application or registration of a trade mark may oppose the Registrar’s acceptance of an application made under subsection (1).

(3) The Registrar may impose limitations and conditions to the registration of a trade mark under subsection (1) that the Registrar may consider necessary.

(b) the competent authority of that Convention country has authorised the applicant to make use of the flag, armorial bearing, state emblem, official sign or trade mark of the Convention country.

37. (1) Subject to subsection (2), the Registrar shall not, without the authorisation of an international organisation to which one or more Convention countries are members, register a trade mark that contains an armorial bearing, flag, emblem, abbreviation or a name of an international organisation where that armorial bearing, flag, emblem, abbreviation or name of the international organisation is protected under the Paris Convention or TRIPS Agreement.

(2) Despite subsection (1), the Registrar may register a trade mark if the Registrar considers that the use of an armorial bearing, flag, emblem, abbreviation or a name of an international organisation specified in subsection (1), in the manner applied for, is not likely to—

(a) suggest to the public that a connection exists between the international organisation and the trade mark; or

(b) mislead the public as to the existence of a connection between the user and the international organisation.
This section applies to a mark which imitates an armorial bearing, a flag, emblem, abbreviation or a name of an international organisation referred to in subsection (1).

(2) The Registrar shall, before registering a trade mark, consider whether the trade mark is limited wholly or in part, to a particular colour or combination of colours.

(3) Where a trade mark is registered without limitation to a particular colour or combination of colours, the trade mark shall be considered to be registered for all colours.
(4) A trade mark considered to be registered for all colours does not enjoy exclusive rights to any registered colour.
